W:11 OLI C Truman said the situation is much better now than it was in 1946; that he is optimistic over nopes for peace. In speaking of a lower defense budget next year, Truman had in mind the government fiscal year beginning July 1, 1951. The present year as he used the phrase, is the 12 months beginning next July Truman's news conference remarks were touched off by questions about a speech Senator Tydings (D-Md) made to the Rotary Club here Wednesday. Tydings, chairman of the senate armed services committee, said he feared a war might start "accidentally" at any time.

A reporter told Truman that Tydings said this country is close to a shooting war with Russia.

The president said he thought Tydings was unduly alarmed if he said that.

Truman withheld comment on an assertion by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse that the United States is spending too much on armaments.

The president said that he had presented a good budget and a tight budget. It calls for the spending of $13,911,000,000 on defense needs. An additional $350,000.000 has been voted by the house appropriations committee, mainly for air power.

Also on the spending theme, he observed that the cost of continuing Marshall plan aid to Europe is much cheaper than a shooting war. This was his reaction to congression: charges that the United States cannot continue the Marshall plan without an ever-increasing deficit.

Truman sald the reason for the deficit is that congress hasn't given the government enough revenue in taxes for its proper

Mrs. Douglas Minor, Jr., Back Home After Winning Long Rospital Battle By DON MORRISSEY Dally Sun Staff. Hope and happiness brightened the aren in the 2100 block of West Thirteenth avenue early Sunday when Mrs. Douglas Minor, Jr., came home to 2127 West Thirteenth. Mrs. Minor had been a patient in John Sealy Hospital, Galveston, for eight months. Saturday her doctors told her she could return home. "From now on it's up to nature; we've finished our examinations and treatments. Rest, falth and work of nature will complete the lob," the doctors said. The Minors arrived home at 4 a. m. Sunday. Word of their arrival preceeded them and several were on hand to greet them at that early hour.

Mrs. Minor is confined to a specially-built bed but is able to conduct her household activities from her resting spot.

She may have visitors every afternoon. Minor said visitors and telephone calls are desired. Mrs. Minor has a phone vixt to her bed and a call to 3654-J will be answered by a cheery hello.

When Mrs. Minor was taken to the hospital eight months ago she was completely paralyzed. Local doctors were buffled by her case and it was months before the doctors at John Scaly were able to determine she was suffering from tuberculosis of the bone.

Her disease, though not uncommon, is rare and her affliction was located in such a position that doctors were unable to pin down the cause. Finally it was determined the condition was in bones near the base of the brain made it impossible to operate and replace the bone structures.

During her stay at the hospital al, Mrs. Minor became weaker and weaker and doubt was expressed as to whether or not she'd pull through.

Under the hospital's plan, all blood used in a transfusion must he replaced or paid for. The Minors were strained to a point where they applied to the local Red Cross chapter for help.

News stories carried the plea for blood all over the state. Units of the Texas National Guard offered men and planes to get the needed blood. Corsicana, Navarro county and other citizens responded and traveled to Galvesials and donated blood. Failure To Heed Prophet's Warning Caused Nation's Fall

Hosea Warned Israel of Coming Destruction —Hebrew Seer's Personal Experiences Gave Force To His Message—Demanded That People Return To Love Of God While There Was Still Time

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS.

A threat and a promise—this was the double message of the prophet Hosea, one of the most passionate and burning of the Old Testament seers. On the one hand, his book echoes and receives with a dreadful warning to his people of the doom and destruction awaiting them, not in the distant future, but immediately. On the other hand, he constantly dinned into the cars of his contemporaries the only possible prevention of this destruction—the resa and patient love of God.

Hosea lived just two thousand seven hundred years ago in Israel but if he were to reappear today in the United States or Canada, his message would be the same. We in this country need it even more than did Israel, desperate as the nation was at the time. And the element in Hosea's private life which gives his message such force is one that we often think of as peculiarly modern.

Personal Tragedy.

No better man than Hosea to bear this double message could have been chosen. His personal tragedy gives him the theme for his utterance. Out of his own overwhelming sorrow he draws the profoundest of national and spiritual lessons. For even the worst that might befall any of us may minister to our understanding of life.

Hosea's wife was faithless, She openly and shamelessly committed the worst sin possible to a woman. Yet Hosea forgave her. This fact seems stur-indous in the light of the law of Moses, and of the prevailing practices of the Corient. To this day, in the primitive East, adultry is punished by summary death, executed by nearest kindred. But Hosea, although deeply and passionately moved by her betrayal of love and honor, took her back again.

In doing so, Hosea entered into a fuller understanding of God's and the nation was the profession of the Lord. His words were unteded, and the nation was timeled, and the nation was timeled, and the nation was timeled, and the nation went into the Lord. His words were unteded, and the nation was lited and prospected in the Lord. His words were untereded, and the of love and honor, took her back again.

In doing so, Hosea entered into a fuller understanding of God's relationship with his people. For as Hosea's wife had sinned against him, so had Israel sinned against God. Hosea had forgiven; so again and again God forgaven; so again and again God forgave Israels' adulterles and risjoyalties. Yet if his wife persisted in her evil ways, Hosea knew that she could not long escape punishment: nor could the Israelities much longer avoid the terrible consequences of their wickedness.

it of glamour and expoe the clay in of glamour and expoe the clay feet.

If this works with New York, next on the list will be San Francisco, New Orleans and other great cities with definite personality.

Many of us hope that the current campaign of derogation will work. Maybe it will stem the flow of tourlists and starry-eyed career seekers who think New York is Mecca. Maybe some of the tourists will stay home or go to the Grand Canyon instead. And maybe there will be more apartments available, less traffic on the streets and smaller crowds in the subways. I doubt it, because the city's reputation is too well rooted for that.

Most of the pleasant and most of the vicious things written about New York are the handwork of the carpet baggers. The native New Yorker, a rare bird indeed, seldom does much philosophical thinking about the city, A visitor or settler from Dry Gulch is more likely to evaluate the city, in terms of glamor, heart and such. If I were visiting or moving to Dry Gulch I'd probably have opinions about it, too, whereas I've never really considered New York as anything more than a home town.

But we do get angry and bored by hearing from our outlander friends that it's an okay place to visit but they'd hate to live there.

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—(P)—
Mexico expects to boost her 1950
wheat crop to 550,000 metric tons, still 200,000 tons short of what she eats.

Secretary of Agriculture Nazario Ortiz Garza told delegates to the National Grain, Cereal, and Food Products Congress yesterday that the current crop will be 50,000 tons over last year's.
By subsidies, Mexico is attempting to build up wheat production to fill domestic needs. Before the drive, her wheat crop averaged

In magazine articles just about every phase of New York existence is being slashed at as if it were a vicious, nasty personality. when she leaves.

If it weren't for our out-of-town If it weren't for our out-of-town visitors, Broadway would be just another street at night. The theaters would be replaced by office buildings and the bistros and nightclubs would go out of business. New Yorkers don't patronize them—most of them have already move out to the suburbs or are saving their money so they can find a spot where there's some grass and trees, and where the carpet-baggers can't find them.

The UAW lost its demand for a union shop, under which all workers would have been forced to join the union—after obtaining jobs if not before.

The company still contends the union could have got virtually what it received today without the strike, which cost an estimated $1.383.720,880 in lost wages and sales.

Only the General Motors strike of 1945-46 lasted longer or cost more. It cost $1,457,000,000 and lasted 113 days.

The wages and insurance section may be reopened once after July 1, 1951, and once after July 1, 1951, the side.

The Chrysler strike was a part of a great human crusade to build a better tomorrow and a better world—a world in which we and out children can have a little more of the good things in life, a little more security and a little more happiness."

Weckler issued a statement stating:

ployes an estimated $1,383,720,880.
Local unions still must ratify the contract in a vote Saturday, but acceptance of one negotiated by Reuther is a foregone conclusion.

The union claims that contract improvements granted by Chrysler equal the "10-cents an hour package" the UAW demanded when it walked out.

It claimed these gains in addi-smoother operations in our plants, xxx.

"As regards pension and other benefits that the individual employe gets under the new contract, he could have got substantially these at the conference table without losing a single day's pay."

The Chrysler pension plan is almost identical with one which recently went into effect at the Ford motor Co., the only other major one in the auto industry. The union now is negotiating for $125 monthly pensions, including federal social security, from General Motors, last of the industry's big three to get UAW demands on pensions.

How a literary shrine in a garden on the Baylor University campus in Waco has grown into a one and one-half million dollar Browning Library and memorial building was revealed to members of the Study Club and guests at the membership luncheon at Kinsloe House Wednesday.

The speaker was Mrs. A. J. Armstrong, wife of Dr. Armstrong, head of the English Language and Literature department of Baylor University and founder of the world-famous Browning Library now nearing completion. Although Dr. Armstrong will go down in history as originator of the plan, it was easy to realize after hearing Mrs. Armstrong, that she provided inspiration and material assistance toward realization of the dream.

In fact, Mrs. Armstrong opened her discussion by stating that she "had lived, breathed, slept, and had her existence in the Library project for ten years." She is bubbling over the netted English poet, is being rapidly transferred from literary London to "a little old Baptist College on the Plains of Texas."

Students and scholars from all over the world come to Baylor University to do research on Browning, the speaker stated. Research for the new biography of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, which was released to the public on April 26th was done by its author. Frances Winwar, who spent

Mrs. Armstrong called particular attention to the Winwar biography, "The Immortal Lovers", and stated that it is being enthusiastically received by devotees of the Browning cult.

Describe Building
The Browning Library is a stately building of classic lines, reserving masterpleces. She she waid.

There is an appealing variety in the memorabilia to be housed in the Library, the speaker declared, as she mentioned in detail many of its most interesting features such as portraits of Browning, the books and copies of the famous Browning love letters are owned by Wellesley and cannot be bought at any price, she revealed. She spoke of the many outstanding gifts to the project, mentioning especially the stained glass windows and the Browning masterpleces. She waid.

Mexia Minister Spoke Thursday To Civitan Club

corsicana civitans neared a making pastor Thursday warn them that waste and inefficiency in the American government is carrying this country "too close to the precipice" and that it is time for all of us to wake up.

Dr. E. S. Hutcherson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Mexia and the first president of Corpus Christi University, told the Civitans that the government deficit is about $2,000 per capita and that the prospects are that it will get further out of balance.

about $2,000 per capital and that the prospects are that it will get further out of balance.

"I am not a democrat or a republican." Hutcherson said. "I am just a good American and I think that it is time that we broke ourselves of something that is getting away from us."

The current things that avoused the speaker's comments were the growing public debt, socialized medicine. "to much government bungling and the "mixture of the church and the State."

"I believe that we have no more use for a representative in the Vatican than we do for a representative at any other church." Hutcherson said.

The speaker intimated that six of the things that were thought to have brought about the fall of the ancient Roman empire are present in America. He listed them as failure of marriage and the home, higher and higher taxes, craze for pleasure and sports, big armaments, decay of religion and the fading of religion into mere form.

Hutcherson was introduced by Val Horne of Mexia, formēr Corsicana resident. The program was brought by Campbell Gillespie and Clark Butler.

The Civitans will hold their spring Ladles Night occasion on the last meeting in May, it was announced.

pretations of ten of Browning's famous poems in their panels.

Introduced by President

Mrs. Armstrong was introduced to her Corsicana audience by Mrs.

E. D. Criddle, Jr., president of the Study Club, hostess organization for the day. In her introducet or remarks, 'rs. Criddle referred to Mrs. Armstrong as a world traveler, having conducted a seventeen-year series of European tours. She also stated that Mrs. Armstrong is participating in the erection of an internationally famous building that will house one of the world's largest literary collections.

Floral decor for the occasion was fashioned of vari-hued roses, daisses, irises and other Spring blossoms. The stage was dominated by a massive arrangement of red roses, silhouetted against a background of palms.

Covers were marked for a personnel of eighty.

Action on the second reading of the ordinance regulating the keeping of livestock and other agricultural animals in the city was postponed until the May 23 meeting. Reason for the action was the absence of Commissioners Fred Prince and Edgar Rittersbacher.

Fred Prince and Edgar Rittersbacher.

The motion to postpone action on the livestock ordinance was made by Commissioner A. H. Bonner, who said it would be better if all the commissioners were on hand when final action was taken. John Copeland, John Burris and Raymond Wilson appeared before the commission and asked questions about the ordinance. The resolution calling for the May 23 election states the $300,000 worth of bonds will mature not more than 15 years from date of issuance; will bear interest of not more than three per cent per annum, payable annually or semiannually, and will mature s. rially and the seminance with the semiance of the semiant of the semiant of the semiant of the semial of the semiant of the semial of the semiant of the semial of the sem annually, and will mature scrially in such installments as the commission may set.

The resolution states the funds shall be used for improvements and extensions of the city's sew-and extensions of the city's sewerage system.

Mayor Hubert T. Braselton pointed out that the issuing of these bonds would not mean additional taxes for the citizens.

"Money collected from the sewerservice fee will be used to retire the bonds," he said.

Judge Mays held that the congregation had the right to conduct services under an apparent agreement with the Dallas group, so he granted the injunction restraining Williams from further preaching in the church.

However, because the plaintiffs do not actually own the property, Judge Mays held that Williams could not be removed from the parsonage. The owner would have to do this, he indicated.

"I can't enjoin him from going into the parsonage when he owns it as much as the deacons," Judge Mays said.

IN AND OUT OF SERVICE

Some harmony was restored in the Harmony Baptist Church (negro) here Wednesday. But more confusion developed.

The preacher-firing congregation—whom the pastor had defled—learned with apparent surprise that their deacons sold the church for about $500 last year. And, it seems, they didn't know what they were signing.

The problem District Judge A. P. Mays faced was: Could the pastor, J. E. Williams, whom the congregation voted to oust, be enjoined from trespassing on the church and from conducting services there-

Also could he be ousted from the parsonage he occupies—when neither party owned the property? That is what the deacons sought to do in an injunction suit filed in Navarro District Court.

Defense Counsel Joe Simkins, however, came up with an ace in his sleeve. From the county deed records he produced evidence that is August, 1949, the church buildings were sold to the Baptist Missionary and Educational Association (negro) in Dallas.

The deed was executed, however, for the purpose of a loan so the church could be repaired, testimony indicated.

Judge Mays held, that the congregation had the right to conduct services under an apparent agreeter three years service in the U.S. Army, including two years and four months in Europe, he graduated from Southern Methodist University with a BBA degree last June. He has been in the internal revenue

Tyler Horsemeat Cases Reversed

AJSTIN, May 4.—(P)—The court of criminal appeals has reversed two cases charging L. R. Neill of Tyler with sale of horsemeat for human consumption.

The appeal court ruled that there was no proof in the record that the meat was sold for human consumption as charged.

The meat was purchased by State Food and Drug Inspector W. A. Welch for the expressed purpose of laboratory analysis rather than human consumption and placed in a sample jar at the time of purchase, the opinion said, adding:

"It is not sufficient to prove that he exposed horse meat for sade contrary to law."

The appeal court reversed and remanded both a Smith county conviction and a fine of $150 and an Angelina county conviction and fine of $500. The Smith county case was before the court on a motion for rehearing after it had been previously affirmed by the appeal court.

The condition was observed first April 25—last Tuesday. Then the odor re-appeared Monday night and again Tuesday night.

It is strictly a nighttime odor-It hasn't been noticed in the day time at all. Hodges says this is because the damp air after dark holds fumes while the sun-warm ed air serves to draw them off.

Such fumes, Hodges said, are probably present to a certain extent most of the time but become

House Approval Finally Gained On Received More Waterways Bill

WASHINGTON, May 4-(P)-The house has given its final approvel to a bill designed to authorprovel to a bill designed to authorize future construction of flood calves but less for truck crops, control, rivers and harbors and dairy produts, poultry and eggs

It accepted, 210 to 137 on a roin cal vote, a conference committee report which is, in effect, a com-promise version of the authoriza-tion bill which passed the senate in different form than previously in different form than previously approved by the house.

Goes to Senate
The report now goes to the senate. If the senate approves, the bill will go to the White House.
The bill carries no appropriations. It simply makes the projects eligible for appropriations by congress by a later date. It includes 14 Texas projects, largest of which is the Galveston seawall.

The bill authorizes $203.723,125 in rivers and harbors projects, $1, in rivers and harbors projects, $1,279,870,200 in flood control projects, $200,000,000 in Missouri river basin $200,000,000 in Missouri river basin reclamation projects, and some $36,658,500 in miscellaneous projects including surveys for other possible projects.

The house passed the bill a year ago. It then carried a total of $1,362,744,175. The senate added numerous projects and hiked the total to $1.389,531,825.

Last week a house-senate conference committee trimmed the senate total by some $109,280,000 and agreed to the version of the bill accepted by the house today.

Texas Projects
The Texas projects include:

Tiger Cubs Edge Kerens Nine, 7-6

In Wednesday Tilt

Stifling a rally in the seventh inning, the Corsicana High school "B" team took a hair-breadth 7-6 baseball victory Wednesday afternoon from the Kerens Bobcats in Kerens.

Kerens.

Corsicana put on a 5-un spree in the first frame, with Kerens getting a total of four in the first two frames. The Cubs added another run in the second, and led by the 6-4 margin until the sixth, when they counted the final tally. Kerens started a final rally in the seventh that netted them two runs before the Cubs managed to retire them.

Euddy Caton went the route for the Cubs, and Dink Reese tossed the full game for Kerens. Corsicana nicked Reese for 7 hits, and Kerens got to Caton for five.
